Most restaurants are usually on busy streets with a lot of foot traffic. Among various types of restaurants, I prefer going to Korean restaurants. First, in Korean restaurants, people can sit on the floor. Although new and recently opened restaurants have tables and chairs, floor seating areas are available in some places as well. People sit on the floor and eat at a low table. Another difference is that the main dish (the drinks are) is served along with small portions of side dishes and rice in Korean restaurants. (It's like finger food in the U.S.) Also, Kimchi is served at every Korean restaurant. Well, these are what Korean restaurants look like. That's all I can think of at the moment.

2. 최근 외식 경험

The last time I had pizza was at a pizza place in Itaewon with my friends. It took about 30 minutes to get there from where I live. We ordered one potato pizza, a seafood pasta, and even (of course) a chicken tender salad. Overall, the food was great, probably because we were all very hungry. However, there were a few things that we didn't like. The restaurant was quite small, and they didn't have many tables. (Because of its popularity, it was full of people.) We had to wait about 30 minutes to be seated and then another 30 minutes for our food to be served. That's it. Overall, I had a really great time at the restaurant with my friends.

There was a Korean barbeque restaurant that my family used to go to. That place served an amazing marinated barbeque. We grilled the meat on a grill and ate right away. We ate at the restaurant at least once a month and always left with complete satisfaction.

When I was a kid, the owner also gave us some free ice cream and candy. He also allowed me and my cousins to play at the small playground next to the parking lot.

The owner lived on the second floor, and he made the playground for his kids.

I still go to other Korean barbeque restaurants from time to time, but the food at that place was the best. Once again, that restaurant was definitely the best restaurant I've ever been to.
